

OBJECTIVES AND FIELD OF THE QUARTERLY ZAGADNIENIA DORADZTWA ROLNICZEGO

In the Articles section, are published: studies, materials, research reports, reviews and dissertations on, among others, consulting methodology, agricultural education, agrarian and rural policy, the functioning and management of entities in agribusiness, including entrepreneurship, multifunctional rural development and agriculture, agrarian policy, rural sociology, ecology and environmental protection, and sustainable development.

The Information section contains short articles of an informative nature, information about the activities of Agricultural Advisory Centers (ODR) and the Agricultural Advisory Center (CDR). This section also contains information on seminars and symposia related to the development of rural areas and agriculture, including agricultural advisory services as well as book reviews.

Each issue also includes bibliographic notes on new publications in the field of rural development and agriculture, which may be useful in advisory work.

The quarterly is intended for a wide scope of readers, ranging from advisers working in Agricultural Advisory Centers and agricultural school teachers, through research workers dealing with the dissemination of research results in practice, and ending with employees of agricultural institutions.

The table of contents and the abstracts of the articles in English enable the use of the journal by English-speaking persons interested getting to know about the discussed issues in Poland.
